

Is there a market for roof-top solar energy systems in Timor-Leste?

Australia's Market Development Facility (MDF) and ITP Renewables conducted an assessment of the potential market for roof-top solar energy systems in Timor-Leste.

Does Timor Leste have a country Factsheet?

Specifically for Timor Leste, country factsheet has been elaborated, including the information on solar resource and PV power potential country statistics, seasonal electricity generation variations, LCOE estimates and cross-correlation with the relevant socio-economic indicators.

Does Timor-Leste have electricity?

Timor-Leste has rapidly expanded electricity access to more than 83 per cent of the population but the country has yet to achieve energy security.¹ Consumer costs, even with government subsidy, remain high and outages are common. In addition, most of Timor-Leste's electricity is generated through costly and polluting diesel generators.

How long does a solar system last in Timor-Leste?

High electricity costs and readily available solar radiation mean that the average payback period for a rooftop photovoltaic (PV) solar energy system in Timor-Leste is only 1.5 to 3 years instead of the global average of 6-10 years. Transitioning to solar can also help the country meet environmental commitments.

What does a solar technician do in Timor-Leste?

Technicians in Timor-Leste have experience in small-scale, off-grid solar energy systems. Commercial or industrial scale installations are more complex and appropriate technical capacity is scarce.

Is Timor-Leste a good country for solar energy?

Timor-Leste has a high-quality solar resource. The global horizontal irradiance in Dili is higher than on the east coast of Australia, where the solar market is mature and installation costs are higher. The cost of electricity in Timor-Leste for commercial and industrial consumers is high compared to ASEAN countries.

In Timor-Leste, reliable access to renewable energy touches all parts of their daily life. Having solar energy means having better healthcare, better education, and it literally powers entrepreneurship and production activities in communities. Until now, there were often positive and negative consequences to technological changes in Timor-Leste.

modest-sized solar home system (for example, 50 watt-peak) may be justified in Timor-Leste on equity grounds. However, it is best in any program to require PV recipients to contribute some part of the system acquisition cost in order to instill a sense of ownership. Timor-Leste does not yet have an environment that would

As almost the whole territory of Timor-Leste has the potential to successfully generate solar energy, the Government is keen to tap into this potential to setup utility scale solar plants as ...

The WISIONS funding was used to implement 16 systems at community level and for individual households in the poorest regions of Timor-Leste. Background. Timor Leste is one of the poorest countries in Asia. Over 70% of households rely on kerosene as their main energy source for lighting and, in rural districts, this figure may be as high as 90%.

The aim of the National Electrification Project is to provide reliable electricity generation, transmission and distribution throughout Timor-Leste. Preparation and planning for the 130 MW Betano power plant began in 2011 with construction underway in June of 2012. The generators arrived later in October that same year.
